Synopsis:

Notorious poet and playwright, Oscar Wilde devours all that life has to offer, but there's only so much that late Victorian England will tolerate. As Wilde delves into a taboo world of unrealized sexual desires, his life rapidly becomes a turbulent charade. Falling under the spell of dashing young Oxford student, Bosie Douglas, Wilde cannot escape the inevitable repercussions wrought by a 'pure' society, nor will he hide in shame for being true to his nature.
